construction time anticipated to completion and ten years to full capacity on water supply and other variables. Relocation of cabins may be required the time of acquisition of the right of way. The four main fishing camps remain, at present, under the control of the Strawberry Water Users Association.

The Bureau of Reclamation will control 300 feet around the edge of the area. They will eventually turn over operational control to the Forest Service and other public agencies. Forest service land will be extended to include recreational areas.

Dr. Thompson stressed the need for pre-planning on public and private land for future development. Planning, zoning, housing requirements and building codes have been or will be adopted by Wasatch County. On Government lands recreation plans will continue to be cleared through present State and Federal agencies as required.

Mr. Lyle Smith of the Forest Service said that many campers are now encroach-
